Privacy Policy

Last updated: October 31, 2026

Your privacy matters to us. This policy explains what personal data we collect, how we use it, and how we keep it safe.

Data controller

Budapest Labs (see Imprint for full business details).
Email: hello@budapestlabs.com

What we collect

When you fill out our contact form, we receive: your name, email address, phone number (if you choose to share it), business name (optional), the service you're interested in, and your message. That's it. You can also write to us directly at hello@budapestlabs.com. We don't use cookies, tracking scripts, or analytics tools of any kind.

Why we're allowed to use it

We handle your data because you chose to send it to us. That's your consent under EU data protection law (GDPR). If we start working together, we also need your details to deliver the project. In some cases, we may keep records to meet legal or accounting requirements.

What we do with it

We use your contact details only to get back to you, put together a proposal, and deliver your project. We will never sell, rent, or share your information with anyone for marketing or any unrelated purpose.

How we keep it safe

Your data is stored on encrypted servers within the European Union. Invoices and accounting records are kept for 8 years as required by Hungarian accounting law (Act C of 2000, §169). Other business correspondence and project data is kept for the duration of our working relationship, plus up to 5 years afterwards. After that, it's permanently deleted.

Services we rely on

Our website is hosted on Vercel (vercel.com), and we use Resend (resend.com) to deliver emails from our contact form. Both providers process data on our behalf under GDPR-compliant agreements. All connections use HTTPS encryption. Vercel keeps standard server logs (IP address, timestamp, page visited), which are automatically deleted after 30 days. Your information is never shared with anyone else.

Your rights

Under EU law (GDPR), you can: ask to see what data we have about you; correct anything that's wrong; ask us to delete your data; limit or object to how we use it; or request a copy in a portable format. You can also withdraw your consent at any time. This won't affect anything we did before the withdrawal. Just email us at hello@budapestlabs.com and we'll get back to you within 30 days.